

Data Narro Digital Forensics Expands within Downtown Milwaukee

Milwaukee, WI— Feb 4, 2020 – Data Narro, LLC announced today that it has signed a lease for a 7th-floor office suite in Milwaukee’s River Bank Plaza building, providing the business with 2,500 square feet of space centrally located in downtown along the city’s prized Riverwalk.

The move comes after the company outgrew its space in the Nō Studios building located in the former Pabst Brewery complex in the city’s Brewery District.

“Nō Studios has been a great place to grow a start-up,” said Director of Communications, Kristian Lars Larsen. “By leveraging both private and co-working space within the building, Data Narro was able to keep expenses low while growing revenue, but we eventually got to a place where a move was necessary.”

“This new space brings us closer to our key clients and prospects – law firms and attorneys working in litigation,” said Larsen. “The additional space will allow us to build out our digital forensics lab and provides space for our team to grow.”

Larsen cited several developments in the immediate area that prompted their decision to relocate to the Plankinton Avenue office building, including the Grand Avenue renovation project, the forthcoming 3rd Street Market Hall, and the Milwaukee Symphony Center that is expected later this year.

Joining Data Narro in the space will be Secured Retail Networks, Inc. (SRN), which is opening their first satellite office outside of their California headquarters. SRN is a leading provider of managed security and professional networking services for companies with large distributed networks. While originally focused on retail, restaurant, and hospitality, SRN has diversified its client base to include customers in healthcare, enterprise, energy, and education. Current clients include The Cheesecake Factory and Crate & Barrel. Initially, 3-5 employees will relocate from California to Milwaukee to help establish the new office.

Both companies are owned by Milwaukee-native John Gapinski, who recently moved back to the Milwaukee-area after nearly 18 years in Orange County, California. Now, based in Milwaukee, Gapinski continues to travel to California regularly.

“I’m impressed by the talent, technology, and energy in downtown Milwaukee. We think this is a phenomenal location to build our businesses,” stated Gapinski. “Both companies will benefit from having access to the burgeoning Milwaukee markets, but also convenient access to the markets in Chicago.”

Both businesses will take occupancy in February, with minor space improvements and build-out expected to be completed by the end of March.
